

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact:

Curtis Freeman, Publicist

info@curtfreeman.com

901-649-5170

Jonesboro, AR – November 5, 2023

Adria Hyde Launches New Website to Connect with Fans

Talented independent singer-songwriter, Adria Hyde, proudly announces the launch of her new website, www.AdriaHyde.com. Designed to be a central hub for her music and connection with fans, the website showcases her latest songs, videos, photos, and upcoming events. "I'm ecstatic to introduce my new website to fans and followers. It's designed to be a space where they can delve deeper into my music, watch my videos, and accompany me on my musical journey," expressed Adria.

Having grown up in foster care, Adria's personal journey lends depth to her music. A self-taught guitar player, she began her songwriting journey at just 11. Her musical inspirations span several performers and songwriters, including Reba McEntire, Lora McKenna, Dave Gibson, D Vincent Williams, and her grandfather, Wallace Hyde. Adria's distinct sound melds melody, raw emotion, and rich storytelling, reflecting her soulful, gritty edge. Her tracks echo her life experiences and strike a chord with fans who value genuine, heartfelt music.

Adria can often be spotted playing live at various venues throughout the South, captivating audiences with her authentic performances. To date, she has released four standout singles: "Suitcase In The Corner", "Talk In This Town", "Don't Leave Me in December", and "Crossroads". Fans can eagerly anticipate her debut album, slated for a 2024 release.

Apart from her musical endeavors, Adria actively supports causes close to her heart. As an ambassador for the Stars Foundation, she champions the needs of orphans and displaced children worldwide. In partnership with Cheryl Robeson Piggott from the Stars Foundation, Adria co-initiated the "Lighting the World Purple" campaign, amplifying support for orphans.

Website: www.adriahyde.com EPK: www.adriahyde.com/epk/

For more information or media inquiries, please contact Curtis Freeman at the details above.